Dear Glyko Customer;

We are very pleased to announce the exclusive sale of Glyko's enzyme product line and carbohydrate analysis technologies to ProZyme, Inc. of San Leandro, California. The talented staff at ProZyme will now begin supplying you with high quality glycobiology analysis products such as N-Glycanase, FACE, HPLC, glycoprotein analysis kits and precast polyacrylamide gels.

Although it has taken some time to find the right home for Glyko products and FACE technology, we believe that ProZyme shares many of our values regarding customer service and high product quality. ProZyme will do better than ever before in meeting your glycobiology needs because of their focus in supplying research reagents. ProZyme will be our prime and sole source of glycobiology products and services in the future. In the next few months, we will engage in an active technology transfer period to ensure product continuity, product quality and support for the Glyko product line. During this period, we continue to appreciate your patience.

We thank you for your business in the past. Please welcome and consider ProZyme for your future glycobiology needs; we include ProZyme's contact information below.

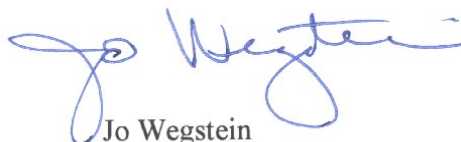

Sincerely,
